VENUE

The FACULTY OF ECONOMICS of the University of Algarve is hosting and organising the conference. The event will take place at the Gambelas University campus.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Tourism has become increasingly important for economic growth and has led to wide research advances in several areas of the field. The economic importance of tourism has caused governments and industry to engage in aggressive and intense promotional activities in order to develop and increase the dynamics and quality of the sector. It is important to address relating issues such as sustainable regional development and the information society.

The purpose of this conference is to bring together researchers, PhD candidates, policy makers and practitioners from all areas of the field and provide a forum for the discussion and dissemination of recent findings in tourism research.

The conference committee welcomes submissions of full length research papers, of theoretical or empirical application. The scope of potential papers can fall within (but is not limited to) the following themes:

- Cultural and heritage tourism
- Tourism and leisure
- Tourism economics
- Tourism education
- Tourism marketing and management
- Tourism planning and development
- Travel and tourism

A special issue of the Revista de Turismo & Desenvolvimento (Journal of Tourism and Development) is planned for papers submitted to the conference.
